Penn Collegium Musicum is a chamber choir that specializes in music from the Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque period. Open by audition to members of the Penn community, the choir has a special interest in historically informed performance practice.

A Parberry Scholar is a recipient of a grant award from the William Parberry Scholarship Fund, which was established in 2018 to commemorate the 45-year career of William Parberry as the Director of Choral Activities at Penn. The award covers the costs of private vocal instruction through the Blutt College House Music Program and is given annually to undergraduate students in one of Penn's choral ensembles who display a love of choral music and the potential to become leaders within these ensembles.
